Sales of OLED materials in the functional colorants segment have significantly increased, and the cumulative performance for the second quarter has greatly exceeded the initial forecasts, so net sales, operating profit, ordinary profit, and profit attributable to owners of parent for the fiscal year ending March 2025 are expected to see an increase compared to the previous announcement.

4. Reason for revision

In our mid-term management plan 'SPEED 25/30' under the vision of what we aim to be by fiscal year 2030, we have set a goal from the shareholder's perspective to 'consistently achieve stable dividends over the long term,' and we consider shareholder returns to be important. Regarding returns to shareholders, we comprehensively consider business performance trends, future business developments, and unforeseen risks, with a particular focus on the 'Dividend on Equity (DOE),' to ensure stable and continuous proper returns to our shareholders.

Based on this philosophy, considering the current business performance and the outlook for the future business environment, we have decided to increase the interim dividend for the fiscal year ending March 2025 to 45 yen per share, which is an increase of 2.50 yen from the most recent dividend forecast. We will also revise the year-end dividend to 45 yen per share, an increase of 2.50 yen. As a result, the annual dividend per share, including the interim dividend, is expected to be 90 yen.

(Note) The above forecasts were created based on information available to the Company as of the date that this revision to earnings forecast was made, and actual results, etc. may eventually differ from these forecasts due to a variety of factors.
